Architectural firms seeking the contracts for designing the new additions to the West and Shawshen schools were represented at the meeting of the Andover school committee Tuesday evening.

During a period of four hours, the committee interviewed the various representatives and at the conclusion of the meeting deferred until next Tuesday any action on the matter.

Representatives of the following firms appeared during the evening: Rich and Tucker Associates of Boston; Shepley Bulfinch, Richardson and Abbott of Boston; Clinton Goodwin of Haverhill; Anderson & Nichols of Boston; Perry, Shaw Hepburn and Dean of Boston; and Perley F. Fees ranged from 7½ to 8½ percent of the overall cost of the construction for which the March town meeting voted a total of $260,000.

Bloodmobile To Come May 16, 17

The Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Free church May 16 and 17. Frank W. Lilley, chairman of the blood program, has advised that under the new Massachusetts Red Cross blood policy each donor at the bloodmobile is not only protecting his blood needs but those of his immediate family for one year. The only charge should he or his family need blood would be the hospital fee for the administering of the blood to the patient. Members of business firms or other organizations also have their blood needs and those of their families protected for a year if their organization meets its quota of donated blood.

Andover residents will be called upon by volunteer workers next week and asked to register for blood donations at the bloodmobile. Precinct recruitment leaders are: precinct 1, Mrs. Charles Shattuck, precinct 2, Mrs. Thomas R. Wallace, precinct 3, Mrs. Paul S. McKinnon, precinct 4, Mrs. Harold A. Johnson, precinct 5, Mrs. L. Fraser Colpitts, and precinct 6, Mrs. Clinton D. Shaw. Col. Frank L. Purdon is in charge of schools and Mr. Lilley is in charge of business and industry.

ADVENTIST DRIVE

The Seventh-day Adventist hope to reach their Missions Appeal goal on Friday, May 6 when there will be a tag day in Andover. Funds derived from this appeal are earmarked for medical, educational, evangelistic and welfare work sponsored by the denomination in 198 countries. Local Church workers hope to help reach their conference goal of $104,000.00. This will mark the 43rd year that Adventists have conducted a solicitation program.

Right To Know WHY

The voters of Andover have a right to know not only WHAT action is taken but WHY public boards reach their decisions.

That a majority of the Board of Public Works realizes that to be so is certainly a credit to their wisdom.

For the system of "handouts", whether it be here or in Boston or Washington, never works well. There is always a WHY attached to every action. And it is that WHY that oftentimes is more important to the citizens than the mere report of an action by a board.

Men and women are elected to office because a majority of their townspeople have confidence in their ability.

It also is true that our governmental system is built on the theory that voters can remedy poor choices by electing someone else at the next election.

How, may we ask, can voters make wise choices when they have been deprived of the right to know what their public servants are doing and why they are doing it?

It is not enough to know the routine decisions, as handed out after a meeting.

It is not fair to the voter, who should be kept informed of the reasons for the decisions.

Nor is it fair to the officeholder, for many a time we have seen an unexplained, unpopular decision become acceptable when the full facts and reasons for members' decisions are made known.

When personalities become a major part of any public meeting, then they, too, become part of news stories of the meetings.

We can only suggest that duly elected officials should not make personal remarks which they feel are of such a nature that the voters would not like them. For, if they know the voters would object, why, in the name of common sense, are they made in the first place? Are they not elected to serve the voters?

We believe it is only fair to all the voters and to all public officials to record the factual debate that leads to a decision; to report whatever major remarks are made by the members, by name; and to report the decision itself.

In that way, the public is able to determine The WHY as well as WHAT action was taken.

As far as quoting any member of a public board, we have this last thought to offer — a prominent elected official recently suggested that newspaper accounts of meetings should always quote board members by name rather than attribute a statement "to a member of the board". The reasoning is simple — first, the elected official should not be worried about having his or her remarks quoted and, secondly, it is only fair to other members that statements of one do not become, by inference, statements of all.

The practical way for parents to lead their children to righteousness is to go that way themselves.

Monday's Assembly

The assembly on Monday was devoted to informing the students on the Boys' State program held at the University of Massachusetts every summer for nine days. The two boys from Andover are sent by the American Legion and the Men's Service Club. The guest speaker was Edwin H. Longbar, Legion's department chairman, who explained the film that was shown at the end of the program.

Norman White and Julian Baer, seniors, told the students of their activities at Boys' State last summer. Norman reviewed the events that had happened on the first day beginning at breakfast. He told them that the 475 boys present were divided into eight towns and four cities which met in assigned rooms under a special name. Norman attended the T-5 Argonne, town. After morning exercises were held, the boys were divided into two parties, Nationalists and Federalists, and conventions, campaigns, and elections were conducted. Class instruction was given in Law and Citizenship.

Julian began his talk by telling the students that it was not all work and no play, and explained that every afternoon for three hours the boys had the opportunity to play baseball, softball, basketball, track, tennis, and to swim. He stated that many of the boys were outstanding; not only in scholastic work but also in athletics. Following supper some of the boys rehearsed together as the Boys' State band and later during the evening the band performed at the general assembly.

Julian concluded his speech with "That night as lights went out, we thought of the new experiences that the day had brought and we silently thanked the American Legion for not only teaching us good methods, but also the importance of such work."

Snapshot Contest

The Camera club is sponsoring a snapshot contest. This undertaking by the club is the first event the club has opened to the student body since it was organized last fall. If this contest is successful, the club will do other things in order to show the students what they are doing. So why not support this contest, you have nothing to lose, and lots to gain! Contest rules can be found on your homeroom bulletin boards.

six rooms at the West school and four rooms at the Shawsheen school. All of the representatives present were invited to give their views on this type material.

During the session, one architect suggested that the town might make a saving if plans for the elementary additions as well as the new high school were offered for bids at once. However, the school committee will supervise construction of the additions, while the school building committee will have charge of the new high school.

The consensus of opinion among the men interviewed was that construction would be completed by September, 1956.

Fidelio Society In Mozart Opera

The Fidelio Society of Abbot Academy will present a concert, followed by Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienna" for the benefit of the Gymnasium Fund, in Davis Hall, Saturday, April 30, at 8:15 p.m. The one act comic opera was composed by Mozart at the age of 12, and is a typical 18th century play, written for the garden performances so fashionable in those days. The story is based on "The Village Seer", by Jean Jacques Rousseau, and the music is gay and charming. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Sunday evening Vesper Service will be conducted by the Reverend Roy L. Minick, D.D., pastor of First Church of Malden.

ident of the board of trustees. The trustees decided to devote this gift toward a new gymnasium to be named for Mr. Abbot, and to seek at once the additional funds necessary for the building. During the past year through the gifts of alumnae, parents, and other friends of the school, the fund has grown so that the sum needed for the building, $200,000 is almost certainly in hand. An additional $100,000 is being sought for as an endowment for the building.

The ground breaking ceremony will include brief speeches by Robert I. Hunneman of Brookline, president of the board of trustees, Burton S. Flagg, of Andover, treasurer of the school for 47 years, and Miss Hearsey.

J. Radford Abbot is the architect for the new building which will be erected by the Edmund J. Rappoli Co. of Cambridge.

Border Planting Show Feature

Border planting designed and executed by Heinrich Rohrbach of Sunset Rock rd., will be one of the features of the Andover Garden club's flower show to be held May 18, in the Christ church parish house.

Mr. Rohrbach who is a nurseryman and landscapist will demonstrate the grouping and proper use of plant material in a small space to give the illusion of depth and distance in the staging of the class of the flower show called "The Spires of Andover". The flower arrangements for the class are to be predominately white and suitable for church decoration.

The staging committee, Mrs. Charles H. Hollis and Mrs. John B. Cecil Jr., believes that this class with Mr. Rohrbach's beautiful garden design will be one of the outstanding features of the flower show.
